

Bush regeneration area

Photo © Richard Ridge

What's going on?

This area is closed off to help plants establish and allow bushland to regenerate. Bush regeneration helps the environment in many different ways.

Photo © Alex Priomos

What can I do?

Please help protect the natural environment by staying out of the bush regeneration area. You can also join the local Bushcare group in your area to help improve our natural areas.

© Forest and Kim Starr,

Naturally regenerating eucalyptus seedlings

How is it helpful?

Bush regeneration helps to:

- restore natural areas
- protect and enhance biodiversity
- improve habitat for native fauna
- improve water quality
- stabilise and protect against erosion.

Casuarina glauca © Forest and Kim Starr

